Associate Consultant

Location Annapolis, Maryland
Sector Non Profit
Experience Early Career
Posted Jun 16
Location Type Onsite

Position description

Crisis24 is a global, AI-enhanced provider of travel risk management, mass communications, critical event management, crisis-security consulting, personal protection solutions and global medical concierge capabilities, allowing prominent organizations, disruptive brands and influential people to operate with confidence in an uncertain world. At Crisis24, we go beyond mere employment; we pave the way to a realm where your skills become instrumental in shaping global security, guiding clients through a multifaceted and challenging landscape. Your journey with us will be deeply fulfilling, driven by a powerful sense of purpose and accomplishment. Within our thriving environment, you'll discover abundant chances for both personal and career advancement. Seize this moment to push your limits, broaden your expertise, and elevate your professional journey to unprecedented levels. Join the Crisis24 team today and be a part of something extraordinary where growth and impact converge.

More information is available at https://www.crisis24.com/careers

Who We Are Looking For

Crisis24's Crisis Security Consulting (CSC) team is seeking an Associate Consultant to join an ever-growing team to support wider project deliverables. The successful candidate will be based within the US or Canada, working remotely, but with potential travel overseas to support response and consulting tasks. Therefore, a candidate with geopolitical knowledge and interest, language abilities, and a willingness and adaptability to support bespoke international projects is sought after. The position further requires education to a Master's level in a sector relevant subject matter, and 1-2 years of relevant work experience and language abilities are desired.

Location: Remote, USA

What You Will Work On

The successful candidate will quickly be involved in tasks and projects supporting the wider Crisis Security Consulting department. No two days are the same, and the Associate Consultant will work on bespoke reporting and threat assessments across geographies and threat types, analyzing data and presenting it to clients, supporting operations on the ground during domestic and international deployments, and editing and proofing the work of your peers. The candidate will also need to support out-of-hours tasks when required as part of a wider team "on-call" rotation system (a week of "on call" every 10-11 weeks, approximate). The Associate Consultant will quickly become adept at multiple types of task delivery, which will support their professional development within Crisis24.

Who You Will Work With

The successful candidate will work within the wider Associate Consultant team, supporting the international consulting team across the Americas, Europe, Middle East & Africa, and Asia Pacific, as well as our Special Risks, All Hazards, and Product Risks response team. As part of the Crisis and Security Consulting department, the Associate Consultant will often work across and collaborate with the wider Crisis24 group and GardaWorld partners.

What You Will Bring

Required

- International Relations/Security Studies (or similar) at a Master's level qualification
- Experience working in a variety of environments
- An adaptable and flexible approach to working is required—the role may involve extended overseas deployments, including potentially high-risk and conflict-affected areas
- Integrity, professionalism, and discretion; individuals must be able to handle sensitive information and issues
- An understanding of Security and Risk Management principles based on best practice standards
- Very high standard of written/verbal English and business-level language ability – candidates with native/business-level Spanish and/or Portuguese will be preferred; however, other language skills are equally valued
- Time management skills, including the ability to keep to tight deadlines
- A task-orientated team player who can operate independently when required

- Interested in geopolitical and security issues and how such issues impact various global sectors
- IT literate with a demonstrative knowledge of Microsoft programs and applications
- Eligibility to reside/work in the US or Canada

Preferred

- 1-2 years of relevant industry-specific experience in a related field
- Experience traveling within high-risk regions/countries is preferable
- A demonstrable understanding of regions and relevant security picture/prominent threats
- A knowledge of cyber threats, cyber threat actors, and malware/ransomware variants
- Understanding of OSINT monitoring platforms and applications
- Valid Driver's License

Information Security

Protect the data and systems of Crisis24 and its stakeholders by adhering to policies, reporting incidents and potential problems, completing regular training, and identifying opportunities for improvement.