Freelance Wellness Consultant - Psychologist
United Arab Emirates

About the job

Company Description TherapyMantra is a global online therapy platform dedicated to transforming access to mental healthcare across 40+ countries, including the USA, UK, Canada, and India. The organization provides comprehensive services such as individual, couples, family, child counseling, and workplace mental health programs. Backed by $15M in funding, TherapyMantra has supported over 100,000 clients and 500 organizations through a network of licensed psychologists, counselors, and therapists. Its user-friendly, secure platform enables 24/7 support via video, chat, and app-based tools, using evidence-based, client-centered approaches. Clients benefit from flexible scheduling, regional language options, and extensive self-help resources designed to foster resilience and long-term emotional well-being.

Role Description The Freelance Psychological Consultant will provide remote, part-time psychological consultation and support through TherapyMantra's online platform. Day-to-day responsibilities include conducting client assessments, offering short-term guidance or ongoing consultation, and developing personalized, evidence-based recommendations aligned with client needs. The consultant will collaborate with other mental health professionals when appropriate, maintain accurate and confidential documentation, and adhere to ethical guidelines and local regulatory standards. They will use secure video, chat, and digital tools to deliver services, contribute to mental health resources or workshops when needed, and ensure a client-centered, culturally sensitive approach in all interactions.

Qualifications

- Clinical expertise in psychological assessment, diagnosis, and evidence-based interventions (e.g., CBT, DBT, solution-focused approaches).
- Strong skills in client interviewing, rapport building, and culturally responsive, trauma-informed care.
- Experience providing telehealth or online psychological services, with comfort using secure digital platforms and documentation tools.
- Excellent communication, case formulation, and report-writing abilities to convey recommendations clearly to clients and teams.
- Master's or doctoral degree in Psychology, Counseling, Clinical Social Work, or a related field; relevant professional license or certification as required by local regulations.
- Ability to work independently in a remote setting, manage a flexible part-time schedule, and handle confidential information responsibly.
- Prior experience in multicultural or global mental health settings is an advantage; fluency in additional languages is a plus.

- Commitment to ongoing professional development, ethical practice, and client-centered care aligned with TherapyMantra’s mission.
