Human Resources Assistant | Remote
Baden-Württemberg, Germany

About the job
This position is for a Remote Human Resources Assistant whose role is to support core HR operations within a distributed team. This fully remote role focuses on maintaining accurate employee records, supporting onboarding processes, and ensuring HR workflows are completed efficiently and in compliance with internal standards.
In this role, you will help keep HR systems organized, handle sensitive information with discretion, and support daily administrative tasks that contribute to a smooth employee experience. This is an excellent opportunity for someone who is detail-oriented, reliable, and comfortable working within structured processes in a remote environment.

Key Responsibilities:

Maintain and update employee records across HR systems, ensuring accuracy and completeness
Support onboarding and offboarding processes, including documentation and scheduling
Prepare HR documents such as contracts, letters, and internal communications
Respond to basic HR inquiries and direct requests to the appropriate team members
Ensure compliance with HR policies, documentation standards, and data privacy requirements
Organize and manage digital HR files using standardized naming and filing systems
Monitor HR workflows, identify delays or gaps, and escalate issues when necessary
Maintain HR trackers and provide regular updates on task progress and outstanding items
Assist with audit preparation by ensuring documentation is complete and easily accessible

Performance Expectations:

High level of accuracy when handling employee data and documentation
Strict confidentiality and responsible handling of sensitive information
Consistent productivity and timely task completion
Clear, professional communication with regular status updates
Strong organizational skills across systems, files, and trackers

Requirements:

Proficiency in Google Sheets and/or Microsoft Excel (data entry, formatting)
Strong attention to detail and ability to follow structured workflows and HR procedures

Clear written communication skills with a professional tone
Ability to handle confidential information with discretion
Reliable internet connection and ability to work independently in a remote setting
Entry-level candidates are welcome; training and support will be provided

Benefits:

Competitive compensation based on experience and performance
Flexible schedule in a fully remote work environment
Structured onboarding, training, and ongoing development
Opportunities for growth within HR and people operations
Supportive remote team culture with regular feedback and collaboration

Career Growth:

This role offers a strong foundation in Human Resources and people operations, with hands-on experience in employee data management, onboarding coordination, compliance, and administrative support. High-performing individuals may advance into roles such as HR Coordinator, Talent Acquisition Assistant, HR Generalist, or People Operations Specialist, depending on performance and business needs.
