About the job

Job Description

Ready to shape the future of digital advertising for the LEGO Group in the Western Europe? The Global Media Activation Team needs an experienced media leader to drive paid social media strategy and activation. If you're a skilled people leader with expertise in social media advertising and a passion for crafting world-class campaigns, this is your opportunity.

Come and join us in Copenhagen at one of the most loved brands in the world where you can have maximum impact! (Start date 1st Oct)

Please apply with an English CV

No relocation support offered

Core Responsibilities

- Serve as the key regional partner to Business Unit Leads, overseeing paid social media timelines, campaign execution, and performance updates, with a strong focus on YouTube and other Paid Social platforms.
- Translate global marketing plans into tailored regional paid social media strategies, guiding platform mix, budget allocation, targeting, ad formats, and flighting while ensuring alignment with global governance standards and regional goals.
- Manage and provide direction for a regional team that oversees paid social media campaigns in Western Europe as the team expands, ensuring alignment with global standards and elevating campaign quality.
- Oversee media team's pacing, performance, and campaign health, collaborating with analytics teams on reporting, brand lift studies, and performance storytelling for optimizations and insights.
- Co-create internal playbooks and systems to support the growth of in-house media capabilities, improving workflow and clarity through cross-functional collaboration.
- Analyze cost-efficiency by tactic/platform to identify areas for smarter media investment.
- Contribute to global knowledge sharing by packaging regional findings and collaborating with the other regional leads on strategy refinement.

Play your part in our team succeeding
