The long story:

I (Noam, the founder) posted every single day for 600+ days documenting the journey of bringing my invention to market. And since then we have become the biggest consumer product brand in the TMJ space. Not just by views, but also by sales.

So far, it has been thanks to one product - yourTMJ Pen. It's a portable heated massager I designed for the head neck and jaw muscles that has helped 19k+ people manage their chronic pain and tension anywhere anytime.

As we grow, my goal is to make more products and get them into the hands of more people. But to do that, I need help. I need someone who knows what they're doing to take over this part of the business; and the goal is that we turn you into someone who can run the entire content operation of an 8 figure business.

The ideal fit:

- Someone who already has grown a social media account to 5-6 figure follower counts
- Ideally you have experience with TMJ Disorder (understand the customer)
- Someone who has ambition to learn how to run and scale a business using the latest content strategies. Not just get views for views sake.
- Someone who's willing to hustle - there's gonna be a learning curve for sure.
