Story Producer | Velox India

Location: New Delhi (On-site/Hybrid, depending on assignment)

About Velox India

Velox India is a people-first media company built on one simple belief:

The most important stories are often the ones that aren't being told.

We produce documentaries, digital journalism, branded films, social-first content, and cinematic visual stories that inform, inspire, and create impact.

Our commercial work with brands and international organizations helps us build something bigger—an independent platform dedicated to meaningful, people-first storytelling.

If you're curious, empathetic, and believe journalism begins with listening, we'd love to hear from you.

About the Role

We're looking for a Story Producer who is naturally curious and constantly asking, "What's the story here?"

Your job won't be limited to sitting behind a laptop. You'll be responsible for discovering compelling stories, researching them in depth, validating facts, developing strong editorial angles, and taking those ideas from concept to production.

You'll work closely with our Creative Director throughout the storytelling process and play a key role in shaping documentaries, news features, digital series, and branded narratives.

This role is perfect for someone who enjoys meeting people, asking thoughtful questions, and uncovering stories that others might overlook.

What You'll Do

* Discover original story ideas with strong human impact.
* Conduct in-depth research and fact verification.
* Develop story pitches, briefs, and production proposals.
* Identify relevant voices, experts, and contributors.
* Plan interviews and prepare insightful, well-researched questions.
* Conduct on-ground reporting and field research.
* Build trust with communities and interview subjects.
* Assist in scripting and narrative development.
* Work closely with the production team during shoots.
* Present stories confidently on camera whenever required.
* Stay updated with current affairs, social issues, and emerging conversations.

* Ensure editorial accuracy, fairness, and attention to detail throughout the production process.

We’re Looking For Someone Who

* Has exceptional research skills.
* Is naturally curious and observant.
* Can identify stories hidden in everyday life.
* Knows how to ask meaningful follow-up questions.
* Has strong communication and interviewing skills.
* Is comfortable speaking to strangers and building rapport.
* Can think critically and challenge assumptions.
* Is confident on camera or willing to develop that skill.
* Can work under deadlines without compromising quality.
* Shares our belief in ethical, people-first storytelling.

Bonus Points If You Have

* Experience in journalism, documentaries, digital media, or long-form storytelling.
* Experience conducting interviews.
* Knowledge of visual storytelling and production workflows.
* Familiarity with political, social, and public-interest reporting.
* Fluency in both English and Hindi.

Why Join Velox India?

At Velox India, you won’t just produce content.

You’ll help shape stories that matter.

You’ll work on documentaries, digital journalism, branded campaigns, and original productions while contributing to a long-term mission of building a people-first media platform.

If you’re looking for a role where curiosity is valued as much as creativity, we’d love to meet you.
