[Hiring] Remote Project Coordinator for Software Projects | Client + Developer Coordination | $30–$50/hr | Part-Time Contract
Hi everyone,

I’m looking for a remote Project Coordinator to help manage communication and coordination across ongoing software projects.

The role is simple and practical: keeping things clear, organized, and moving forward between clients and developers.

* Already working in a company or have experience with how client–developer workflows operate is a big plus (and this can be a good side role for additional income)

🛠️ What you’ll do:

* Talk with clients to understand their needs

* Turn client requests into clear task notes for developers

* Coordinate updates between clients and the engineering team

* Track progress across multiple projects

* Make sure nothing gets lost or delayed

* Help with small technical checks when needed

👤 Who this is for:

* Good communication skills (clear English)

* Comfortable with basic technical concepts

* Some IT / tech exposure is helpful but not required

* Organized, reliable, and detail-oriented

* Able to switch between client and technical conversations

💰 Details:

* Fully remote

* Flexible part-time / contract work

* $30–$50 per hour

* Location: North America & Europe preferred

* Paid via PayPal, Wise, or bank transfer

This role is ideal for someone who enjoys staying organized and helping teams stay aligned between clients and developers.

If interested, please reply with your location, availability, and a short introduction.
